

INNOVATIVE PRACTICE – DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

LANGUAGE LABORATORY

Objective:

English has been gaining greater importance for Global Communication. It is no longer a library language but a language of opportunities. A fairly high degree of efficiency in English and excellent communication skills enhance students' employability.

The lab activities aims to develop students' ability to use English accurately, appropriately and fluently, both for face to face – and telephone communication in academic, social and professional contexts.

The course is divided into three parts. Part-I familiarizes students with the sounds of English and their symbols and introduces them to word stress, sentence stress and intonation. This part also attempts to neutralize students' accent by drawing their attention to common errors made by non -native speakers of English with respect to sounds in English that are not found in Indian languages. Part-II of the course attempts to familiarize them with the basics of oral communication and to develop their ability to use English for performing some of the most common communicative function in academic, social and professional contexts. Part-III helps students to understand the telephone as a mode of communication and prepares them to handle telephone calls and use it for basic communicative functions such as requesting and asking for and giving information.
