

PYTHON PROGRAMMING

Report

A Guest Lecture was conducted on Python Programming on 29th January, 2020. Dr. Y. Vijay Bhaskar Reddy, Associate Professor in Vardhaman College of Engineering, Hyderabad was the Resource Person.

He started his session by explaining the importance of python programming in today environment. He mentioned python programming is a dominant programming language used in various areas like Data mining, big data & Machine learning applications.

He explained students about the basics of python programming like operators, Data types, versions, syntax of control statements, features of python programming. He gave a brief introduction of Data science applications to students. He gave an interesting lecture to students which would help them to make python programming as their career.